Even if the blood of Jesus Christ cleanses us entirely, most Christians do not believe in its redemptive power. We are only convinced that the blood of Jesus saves our souls only. As a result, we keep struggling in other areas of our life including our finances. The Bible tells us that Jesus became poor for our sake so that we through his poverty might be rich. The Blood of Jesus Christ brings financial prosperity along with redemption. It is the will of God for us to prosper in all areas of our life. In fact, He delights in the prosperity of His people. However, we must not compromise our worship of God with the love of wealth. God prospers us, not because we can live selfishly on our own, but because we can contribute to His kingdom, and befriend and empower other people.
